

Lessons in Leadership

Overview:

These courses expose a management team to the best in current leadership and management thinking through taped presentations from internationally/nationally recognized experts. Many of the speakers have books on current best-seller lists that address issues faced by leaders in their constantly changing environments.

The topics in Lessons in Leadership are also offered through Scheduled Classroom Courses to various locations around the state. This new offering through the Managing Matters program permits a specific management team the opportunity to experience the presentation together and engage in discussion that relates to their specific management environment.

Before and after each taped presentation, a Training Services Division specialist facilitates discussion and activities to engage the management team in the content.

New topics are added and posted on this website semi-annually. Click here to see the topics for the current period.
